

Race 'n' Respect

Allan McNish, Le Mans 24 Hours winner and 2013 FIA World Endurance Champion

"I first launched Race 'n' Respect in Bambino and Cadet karting at Autosport International 12 months ago, and for it to be so successful and expanded across all karting and into junior circuit and drag racing is a really important step. I am sure drivers and teams all realise from an early age that racing is not just about winning – it's also a fun and social family sport for so many competitors. That's what Race 'n' Respect promotes and it's why I'm right behind the campaign"

Race 'n' Respect

Is a code of conduct for karting, junior circuit racing, junior drag racing, junior rallycross, junior autocross and British F4, designed to create a positive atmosphere both on and off the track.

Principles

Respect
Fair Play
Self-Control
Good Manners
Sincerity

Here at Lydd Kart Circuit staff/marshals/officials also recognise and will be guided by these principles. We also acknowledge that there are different groups within the racing family and will treat everyone appropriately; create a welcoming, friendly and safe environment for everyone. Treat every competitor fairly and encourage others to do so, recognising that as a representative of the sport we have a duty to be polite and treat racers, volunteers and supporters with respect.
